

Art Candy

4/18/08

3:00 pm

Artist Tamara Kostianovsky Displays Her Finely Tailored Meat Products

Tamara Kostianovsky's Bound (2007)

Courtesy Black & White Gallery

With McDonald's hater Morgan Spurlock off hunting Osama bin Laden, Tamara Kostianovsky carries the torch, shoving the gore of our carnivorous culture back in our faces with her frilly carcasses stitched from old clothes. These cuddly depictions of death transform Chelsea's Black & White Gallery into a well-insulated meat locker through May 24. —Emma Pearse